Emily Parker Castle, ASID / BA Architecture
Washington University, 1978

Follow this and additional works at: http://openscholarship.wustl.edu/wia_profiles

Recommended Citation
http://openscholarship.wustl.edu/wia_profiles/6

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Sam Fox School of Design and Visual Arts at Washington University Open Scholarship. It has been accepted for inclusion in Women in the Design World: Work in Progress by an authorized administrator of Washington University Open Scholarship. For more information, please contact emily.stenberg@wustl.edu, digital@wumail.wustl.edu.
Alumnae Biography

EMILY PARKER CASTLE, ASID
BA Architecture Washington University | 1978

AWARDS
2014, Kitchen of the Year, Platinum Category, St. Louis Homes & Lifestyle - 2014, 1st Place National 4000sf AT HOME Magazine Design Awards - 2011, First Place Residential Architecture over 4000sf AT HOME Magazine Awards

PUBLICATIONS
St. Louis Homes & Lifestyle, January/February 2014, Beach Chic St. Louis Homes & Lifestyle, April 2013, Rearranged, Just Relocated St. Louis Homes & Lifestyle, Oct. 2010, Favorite Spaces Winner: Dining Room

AWARDS
2010, NBA National Kitchen of the Year with Brooksherry & Associates Date of Project: 2010

After purchase a two-story, circa 1860 log cabin in rural Missouri, the couple decided to add a very substantial 1,900 square foot addition.

They brought in designer Emily Castle early, and she was able to ensure the interiors were functional and beautiful, and complemented the architect’s exteriors. One of the major challenges in the project was to incorporate the many high-tech features that this extremely active, forever-restarting couple wanted in a way that would mesh with the project’s rustic log cabin aesthetic.

Geothermal heating and cooling system hidden in the floor, ceiling speakers nestled behind a stained cypress-paneled ceiling and an 18-foot NanaWall all seem right at home with the home’s abundant natural materials which include limestone, copper, cork, flagstone and rough heartwood beams.

BIOGRAPHY
Emily Castle, owner of Castle Design, is one of St. Louis’ most sought after and prominent residential interior designers. Her design philosophy is consistently client centered. From chic urban condos to sprawling rural compounds, Emily ensures that her projects are individualized expressions of the families she serves.

In addition to degrees in Art and Interior Design, Emily’s degree in Architecture sets her apart from other designers and provides her clients with an invaluable resource. Emily is NCIDQ Certified, a Registered Interior Designer in the State of Missouri and a Professional Member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

They brought in designer Emily Castle early, and she was able to ensure the interiors were functional and beautiful, and complemented the architect’s exteriors. One of the major challenges in the project was to incorporate the many high-tech features that this extremely active, forever-restarting couple wanted in a way that would mesh with the project’s rustic log cabin aesthetic.

Geothermal heating and cooling system hidden in the floor, ceiling speakers nestled behind a stained cypress-paneled ceiling and an 18-foot NanaWall all seem right at home with the home’s abundant natural materials which include limestone, copper, cork, flagstone and rough heartwood beams.

AWARDS
2010, NBA National Kitchen of the Year with Brooksherry & Associates Date of Project: 2010

After purchase a two-story, circa 1860 log cabin in rural Missouri, the couple decided to add a very substantial 1,900 square foot addition.

They brought in designer Emily Castle early, and she was able to ensure the interiors were functional and beautiful, and complemented the architect’s exteriors. One of the major challenges in the project was to incorporate the many high-tech features that this extremely active, forever-restarting couple wanted in a way that would mesh with the project’s rustic log cabin aesthetic.

Geothermal heating and cooling system hidden in the floor, ceiling speakers nestled behind a stained cypress-paneled ceiling and an 18-foot NanaWall all seem right at home with the home’s abundant natural materials which include limestone, copper, cork, flagstone and rough heartwood beams.

BIOGRAPHY
Emily Castle, owner of Castle Design, is one of St. Louis’ most sought after and prominent residential interior designers. Her design philosophy is consistently client centered. From chic urban condos to sprawling rural compounds, Emily ensures that her projects are individualized expressions of the families she serves.

In addition to degrees in Art and Interior Design, Emily’s degree in Architecture sets her apart from other designers and provides her clients with an invaluable resource. Emily is NCIDQ Certified, a Registered Interior Designer in the State of Missouri and a Professional Member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

They brought in designer Emily Castle early, and she was able to ensure the interiors were functional and beautiful, and complemented the architect’s exteriors. One of the major challenges in the project was to incorporate the many high-tech features that this extremely active, forever-restarting couple wanted in a way that would mesh with the project’s rustic log cabin aesthetic.

Geothermal heating and cooling system hidden in the floor, ceiling speakers nestled behind a stained cypress-paneled ceiling and an 18-foot NanaWall all seem right at home with the home’s abundant natural materials which include limestone, copper, cork, flagstone and rough heartwood beams.

BIOGRAPHY
Emily Castle, owner of Castle Design, is one of St. Louis’ most sought after and prominent residential interior designers. Her design philosophy is consistently client centered. From chic urban condos to sprawling rural compounds, Emily ensures that her projects are individualized expressions of the families she serves.

In addition to degrees in Art and Interior Design, Emily’s degree in Architecture sets her apart from other designers and provides her clients with an invaluable resource. Emily is NCIDQ Certified, a Registered Interior Designer in the State of Missouri and a Professional Member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

They brought in designer Emily Castle early, and she was able to ensure the interiors were functional and beautiful, and complemented the architect’s exteriors. One of the major challenges in the project was to incorporate the many high-tech features that this extremely active, forever-restarting couple wanted in a way that would mesh with the project’s rustic log cabin aesthetic.

Geothermal heating and cooling system hidden in the floor, ceiling speakers nestled behind a stained cypress-paneled ceiling and an 18-foot NanaWall all seem right at home with the home’s abundant natural materials which include limestone, copper, cork, flagstone and rough heartwood beams.