

Aga Khan Museum

case study
By Ziwen Wang

Location: Toronto, Ontario, Canada

Architect: Fumihiko Maki

Owner: N/A

Year of completion: 2014

Climate: Humid continental climate

Material of interest: Stone as slab

Application: Exterior

Properties of material:

The Brazilian granite slabs offer a delicately textured facade that could be mistaken for marble.

Sources:

Dezeen Website: <http://www.dezeen.com/2014/09/15/aga-khan-museum-toronto-fumihiko-maki/>