

Educational Institute La Samaria

case study
By Juan Gonzalez

Location: Pereira, Colombia

Architect: Campuzano Arquitectos

Owner: N/A

Year of completion: 2012

Climate: Wet Equatorial

Material of interest: Wood

Application: Exterior

Properties of material: The project uses bamboo on the facade as a way to control heat and the sun. Bamboo is a renewable natural material and is commonly used regionally for structural purposes.

Sources:

<https://www.archdaily.com/307970/educational-institute-la-samaria-campuzano-arquitectos>