

Digital Repository Contributor License

Background: The purpose of this form is to convey your permission to WashU to copy, display, and distribute your Work for non-profit, educational purposes on a University-managed website. By granting this license, your Work may be made publicly available and accessible to readers around the world.

I, _____, as copyright owner (or authorized representative for the rightsholder) of the Work described below, hereby grant specific and limited reproduction, distribution, and public display rights to The Washington University: I authorize Washington University to digitize, copy, display and distribute the Work described below via the Internet or in electronic format through a Washington University website or digital repository (e.g. Open Scholarship), consistent with the University mission to preserve and make available data and works of scholarship. I further authorize Washington University to electronically store, archive, and copy the Work and convert it to other media for preservation purposes. This is a revocable, non-exclusive, worldwide, perpetual, sublicensable, royalty-free license. Contributor retains ownership of all rights under copyright to the Work, and all rights not expressly granted here.

In granting this permission, you warrant that:

1. You have the full power and authority to grant this license;
2. To the best of your knowledge, the Work does not infringe third-party rights (e.g. does not contain information that could risk the confidentiality of subjects from whom it was obtained); and
3. In connection with the use of the Work set forth above, you waive the confidentiality provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) with respect to the content of the Work(s), including your name and status as a student.
